THE REGENT DIAMOND.

It is Acknowledged the Most Perfect Brilliant in Existence.

The "Pitt" (or "Regent," as it was afterward called) is the most perfect brilliant in existence, and its history is also very remarkable. It is said to have been found by a slave in the Partee mines in 1701, who to retain his treasure cut a hole in the calf of his leg, in which he concealed it, although it is more probable he secreted it among the bandages. The slave escaped to the coast with his find, where he encountered an English skipper, whom he made his confidant, offering, indeed, to bestow upon him the stone in return for his liberty. The mariner, apparently consenting to the slave's proposal, took him out to sea and when there drowned him, after obtaining possession of the diamond. Disposing of the gem to a diamond merchant for £10,000, it is said the man afterward hanged himself in a fit of remorse.

Mr. Pitt, governor of Fort St. George and great-grandfather of the illustrious William Pitt, became the next possessor of this valuable stone, weighing 410 carats for £20,000. He sent it to London, where he had it very skillfully cut at a cost of £5,000 the process occupying two years. Pitt appears to have found his diamond no very enviable possession, for after refuting the calumnies of his enemies, who had charged him with having obtained it by unfair means, he was so haunted by the fear of being robbed that he never slept two nights consecutively under the same roof, never gave notice of his arrival in or departure from town and went about mysteriously disguised. He must necessarily have felt greatly relieved when he parted with the diamond to the Duc d'Orleans, regent during the minority of Louis XV, king of France, in 1717 for the sum of £125,000.—Chambers' Journal.

The News From Billville.

We write the copy for this week's issue from our bed, where we have suffered an attack from the grip and three doctors.

Our New Year's resolution is framed on the wall before us. We are sure to keep it, if our illness continues, as we can't swallow anything.

We return thanks to the kind friends who have remembered us during our indisposition with such delicacies as baked possum, stewed rabbit and corned beef.

The preacher assured us yesterday that if we should cross the river this trip we would have "a warm welcome" on the other side. But somehow or other that kind of news is not very comforting to us.—Atlanta Constitution.

BLOOD POISON CURED BY B. B. B.

Bottle Sent Free to Sufferers.

Deep-seated, obstinate cases, the kind that have resisted doctors, hot springs and patent medicine treatment, quickly yield to B. B. B. (Bottanic Blood Balm), thoroughly tested for 30 years. B. B. B. has cured such indications as mucous patches in the mouth, sore throat, eruptions, eating sores, bone pains, itching skin, swollen glands, stiff joints, copper-colored spots, chancres, ulceration on the body, and in hundreds of cases where the hair and eyebrows have fallen out and the whole skin was a mass of boils, pimples and ulcers. This wonderful specific has completely changed the whole body into a clean, perfect condition, free from eruptions, and skin smooth with the glow of perfect health. B. B. B. is the only known perfect cure for blood poison. So sufferers may test B. B. B. and know for themselves that it cures, a trial bottle will be sent free of charge.

B. B. B. for sale by druggists at $1 per large bottle or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. For trial bottle, address BLOOD BALM CO., Mitchell Street, Atlanta, Ga.

HOW GENERAL LAWTON DIED

Surgeon Benseley, Who Stood Beside Him, Tells the Story.

The following account of the death of General Lawton has been received in a letter from Surgeon Benseley to his family, who resides at Saucello, Cal. The writer was within a few feet of General Lawton when he was struck and was one of the first to reach him after he had fallen from his horse, says the New York Sun. The letter reads:

"I was at the head of our column when an officer rode up and told me that there was a wounded man over toward the river, pointing out the location. So I cantered over in the direction given, and on my way I noticed a tall man standing alone about 20 yards away to my right. He was dressed in a yellow oilskin and white helmet. He put up his hand and called for me to come over to him. I did so and then recognized that it was General Lawton. He told me that I had better not go over there on my horse, saying there was a wounded man there, but he would send a litter and have him brought to me. We were in a somewhat depressed place. I handed the bridle to my orderly and went across. The wounded man was Lieutenant Brockbridge of General Lawton's staff. A litter came soon afterward and with it another officer, Captain King. I helped carry the litter back to where I had left my horse and found General Lawton still there.

"When within six feet of him, I noticed a bullet splash in a pond of water about 20 feet behind him and at the same time saw him turn slightly in his saddle. The officer who was with him also noticed the movement and said to him, 'General, are you hit?' 'I am shot in the chest,' was his answer. The next instant he turned quickly in a half circle and plunged forward. Captain King caught him as he fell. I put my hand on his pulse. There was none, and at the same time blood poured from his mouth. The light of life left his eyes, and after a few short breaths the general, who a few moments before was a strong, powerful man, an indomitable warrior, a brilliant and absolutely fearless soldier, lay a corpse."

BAND FROM AMERICA.

How It Will Be Dressed and Made Up For Trip to Paris.

The band that I will take with me to Paris this year at the invitation of Commissioner General Peck of the United States commission to the Paris exposition will be representative of the United States, writes John P. Sousa in The Independent. The band contains many men born here, owing all they have of education and training to the United States. Our programme will probably be found broader in scope than those of the other bands, as the French are apt to play French music only, the Germans German music only and so forth. Our uniform will be of dark blue, richly braided, turned up at the cuffs with velvet and having the American shield at the collar. This shield and the gold cord on the cap are the only touches of bright color. It is quietly elegant and will form quite a contrast to the gorgeous uniforms of the other bands that will take part with us in the fete. During the time that we are over there we will tour all Europe and go to England if the Transvaal war is quieted before we return home.

The last great international band competition took place in Paris in the year 1887. All the countries of Europe were invited to compete, and all took part with the exception of England. The jury consisted of Ambrose Thomas, Hans von Bulow, Felix David, Leo Delibes, Grisar and Hanslick. Three first prizes were awarded, as follows: Band of the Garde du Corps (German); A band of the Garde Republicaine (French); B. and Seventy-Third Regiment band of Austria, C. These led the crack bands of Holland, Russia, Spain, Baden, Bavaria, etc. I believe that at the present time the band of the Garde Republicaine is considered the best in Europe.

As we shall play every day at the fair and as we shall take a very prominent part in the fete, such as the unveiling of the Lafayette statue on July 14, we are going to a place and an occasion that will subject our American artists, instruments, music and methods to a rigid, but I trust fair, criticism.

Mrs. J. K. Miller, Newton Hamilton, Pa., writes: "I think DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve the grandest salve made." It cures piles and heals everything. All fraudulent imitations are worthless. Hargis' Pharmacy, John Shepard, S. Kahn.

I will repair your watches and jewelry in first-class style. J. I. Stephens.

MINERS AND MORPHINE.

A Necessary Custom Which is Not Pleasant to Contemplate.

"When I was in the northwest," said a gentleman with some money invested in mines, "I employed a prospector to go out into the mountains looking for properties which had been recommended to me. One day he was to have gone from our camp over into a very rough and rocky district, but when evening came he reported that he hadn't made the trip.

"Why not?" I inquired.

"Because I didn't have my morphine with me," he responded in a very matter of fact manner.

"Morphine?" said I in astonishment.

"What has that got to do with it? You are not a morphine fiend, are you?"

"Not as much of a one as you are a tenderfoot," he laughed and proceeded to inform me that every prospector who knew his business always carried with him enough morphine to kill a man easily and that he did so in order to end himself quickly in case of an accident which would disable him far away from assistance.

There were many instances of prospectors falling over cliffs and crippling themselves or breaking a leg in a hole among the rocks or rendering themselves helpless in some other way, and death was sure to follow by starvation or freezing or in some sections by being devoured by wolves or other wild animals. In order to prevent such a horrible death as any of these the prospector simplified matters by always carrying a little packet of morphine, which not only quieted the pain of the hurt he had sustained, but put him to sleep pleasantly to wake no more on earth. It struck me at first as uncanny, not to say wicked, but I got over that feeling after a narrow escape or two, and I carried my little tin box just like a veteran would."

—Washington Star.

He Knew Human Nature.

Three young men were walking up Riverside drive the other morning, when a gamy looking race horse jogged by, drawing a natty trotting rig.

"Isn't that a splendid animal?" exclaimed one of the young men in cheery, admiring tones, pausing to gaze at the trotter.

The driver's eye sparkled, and his chest expanded. He had heard the compliment. Wheeling his horse around, he brought it alongside the pavement.

"Wouldn't you like to try a brush behind him?" he said courteously.

In a jiffy the young man was seated in the buggy, and the two were disappearing down the drive at a pace that justified the compliment of the pedestrian. His companions watched him anxiously. Then one of them said: "Bill is a judge of horseflesh."

"And an artist on human nature," added the other. "I've seen him do that before."—New York Mail and Express.

He Missed His Slippers.

When a young man, the late John Lewis, R. A., went to India and Egypt and was away about 18 years. When he returned to his mother's house in Portland place, he almost immediately pulled off his boots and commenced to hunt about at one end of the parlor fender and seemed terribly put about. His mother of course asked him anxiously what he wanted.

"My slippers," said he. "When I went away, I left them just down there. Now, where are they?"—Tit-Bits.

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMEN WHO WORK.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.

Though only 19 years old, I suffered from pains and female troubles two years. Last spring I got so bad I had to quit work. I had to support myself, and could not afford a high-priced doctor. I got one bottle of Wine of Cardui and that made me feel better. Have now used several bottles and am well. My mother used the Wine for Change of Life and was greatly relieved.

MISS MARGARET WALSH.

McNIE'S
Wine of Cardui

Many girls and women find it necessary to earn their own living in various kinds of employment. Their work is often so hard and confining that the health breaks down. Their delicate constitutions are unfitted for tiresome tasks. Weakness nearly always makes its appearance in the peculiarly delicate womanly organs. Constant standing on the feet, and coming and going at the beck of a superintendent or foreman, induces falling of the womb, leucorrhoea, headache and backache. The pay of women workers is often so notoriously small that when sickness comes they have no money to engage skillful physicians. To them Wine of Cardui is truly a blessing. It cures them of their ills at a small cost, and they can act as their own physicians. No doctor can do as much for "female troubles" as Wine of Cardui.
